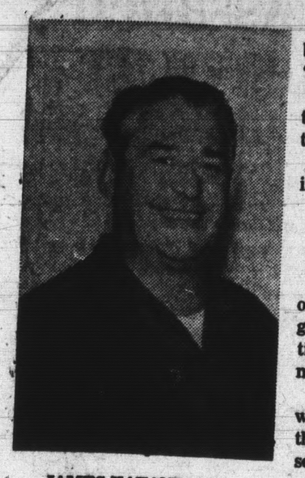
Coast Personnel Advisory Program Assailed



JAMES KAFANTARIS
Levels Criticism

By LOIS McNALLY

The former vice chairman of Pacifica's Personnel Advisory board charged last week that the board has reached the point "where it can't do any good."

In an interview, the former board official, James Kafantaris of 1263 Galvez drive, declared he was "disgruntled with the way things are going."

Kafantaris recently announced his resignation. He noted in the interview:

"The board has no power to act, it never knows what the city budget is going to be or how much it will be allowed to give the employes."

His charges drew varied reaction from Pacifica city officials and present board members, ranging from a categorical denial from City Manager Karl Baldwin to an observation from Mayor Harold Feyge that some good points had been made.

Kafantaris claimed the city would save time if it did away with the personnel board and let the city manager include the recommendations for employes' increases when he presents his proposed budget to the city council.

He said that in his opinion, the board's recommendations are to give the employes as much as they ask for and then let the requests get pared down in the final budget by the city council.

While Kafantaris said he thought that city workers should be paid as much as the city can afford, he objected to their demand they receive the same as they would in industry.

He pointed out that city workers have the extra benefit of regular employment, with no loss of pay through strikes, inclement weather, or lockouts. Nor do they have o pay high union dues, he said.

Kafantaris also objects to the personnel board's aim in trying to match other Bay Area cities in employes' salaries. This can not be done, he thinks as long as the average take-home pay of Pacifica taxpayers is so much less than those in other cities.

The Pacifica board recently recommended to the city council a five per cent pay increase for all city employes with an added two and one half per cent increase for police and firemen.

The board's stated aim, according to Chairman Durwood Bird, is to come up to the level of some seven other North County cities.

Kafataris also charged that in his opinion, the majority of the personnel committee members are "for management and not for labor." He said that he and member Ralph Brant were the only members "biased toward the man in overalls."

Commencing on this, Bird said he was inclined to agree that Kafantaris and Brant were "biased toward the man in overalls" but that he disagreed that other committee members had any bias one way or other.

Kafantaris, who has been called the "anchor man" of the personnel board, has been active in San Francisco labor circles for many years.

He is an electrician and is currently running for office in his local. He also has been active in the State Employes' union for five years.

Robert Hilt, another personnel board member, said he was sorry to see Kafantaris leave the board. He added Kafantaris was "honest in his convictions, a good man, and will be missed."

Hilt said Kafantiris was entitled to his opinions, that he personally would agree in some cases and not in others, with him.

Kafantaris also stated that in his opinion his "bias toward the man in overalls" was not shared by other city officials.

Especially, he said, he believed that some department heads were more concerned with their own pay increases

Assembly Unit Kills Cow Palace Bill

But Suit May be Brought Against Daly City Annex

By RON BATES

A bill that would delete the Cow Palace and the Midway Village Housing project from Daly City's proposed annexation of Bayshore City was killed Monday by the State Assembly Committee on Municipal and County Government.

The Senate previously had passed the bill.

Immediately after the vote by the 15-member committee, Robert McCarthy, chairman of the board of directors of the Cow Palace, threatened a law suit by the Attorney General's office on the validity of Daly City's proceedings.

McCarthy said that because the Cow Palace comprises uninhabited territory, it could not be included in Daly City's annexation. The city is annexing under an inhabited areas act.

Only one "aye" vote was cast for the Senate-approved bill, sponsored by Senator J. Eugene McAteer, of San Francisco.

Mayor Joseph Verducci said the defeat of the bill was the result of "a lot of work by a lot of people."

City Manager Edward Frank and Councilman Robert St. Clair spent two days last week in Sacramento, talking to legislators. Verducci said.

Verducci, City Attorney Paul Hupf and San Mateo county Manager Robert Stallings made presentations before the assembly committee Monday.

"Our cause was just or we wouldn't have won it," Verducci said. "Any time someone can beat McAteer, who is a very respected legislator, he has to be pretty much in the right and has to do a lot of hard work."

Verducci said annexation would proceed as scheduled and expressed confidence that Daly City would win a special election in Bayshore City July 2.

"This was a major battle for us," he said, "and we're halfway home."

Testifying before the committee in support of the bill, which had been pushed through the Senate with an emergency provision, were McCarthy, Howard Gilmore, a Cow Palace board member, and Jefferson Peyser, counsel for the San Mateo county Housing Authority.

Bayshore residents voiced opposition to the bill on the grounds that the special on election July 2 would be "meaningless" if it became law.

In making his presentation to the assembly committee, Hupf said the basic reason for including the Cow Palace in the annexation was to prevent "pockets or islands" of unincorporated land in the city.

Hupf showed the invalidity of the emergency provision of the bill. He said the sponsors of the bill failed to show where alleged expenses would be incurred by the Cow Palace.

He pointed out that if the annexation vote July 2 is successful, the existing Bayshore Fire District would be absorbed into Daly City, leaving the Cow Palace and the housing project without fire protection and other services.

Hupf gave a report on the annexation proceedings and said that the only objection to the move was by the Cow Palace.

No opposition by the housing authority was reported at the two hearings held by the city council.

Grandfather Is Charged With Murder

By DON MILLER

A 51-year-old unemployed Daly City roofer was scheduled to enter a plea today on a charge of murder in connection with the hammer slaying of his two-year-old grandson about 8:30 Friday morning.

Anthony R. McCoy of 207 Los Banos avenue was arraigned Monday on the charge in North District Municipal Court in South San Francisco.

Daly City investigators said McCoy has admitted bludgeoning to death Robert Salas, son of Mrs. Maureda Salas of the Los Banos address.

Mrs. Salas, 24, is the daughter of McCoy. Neighbors said the mother, son and grandfather had been living at the Los Banos address for about a year and a half.

From statements taken from McCoy, police said the grandfather had become angry at his daughter for not coming home Thursday night.

McCoy told investigators he figured he could hurt his daughter by hurting her son. He added that he couldn't hit his daughter because she had told him she "would have the police on him."

Neighbors said McCoy was devoted to children and particularly devoted to his grandson.

After striking the boy in the head, McCoy told his questioners, he attempted to commit suicide by slashing his wrist once with a razor.

He said he noticed that he wasn't bleeding much and slashed himself again. Then, he added, he returned to a bedroom where he had left his grandson on a bed and laid down beside the boy "to die."

When he felt the youngster move, he got up and went to the front door and started to yell for help, he told police.

A neighbor, Andrew Flick of 214 Los Banos, saw McCoy holding his hand. When he noticed the grandfather was bleeding, he called police.

Investigation of the murder was headed by Sgt. Charles Terry of the Daly City police. He was assisted by Detectives Philip LaBruzzo and Lester Bastedo and Patrolman Edward Guzman, who was the first police officer at the scene of the crime.

Guzman said when he arrived, McCoy was standing in front of his house, a modest one-story four-room bungalow-type building.

The patrolman took McCoy's belt and used it as a tourniquet to stem bleeding from his wrist. As he did so, McCoy told him:

"Leave me alone, don't do that. Leave me alone. I want to die."

McCoy was treated at Kaiser Foundation hospital in South San Francisco for the cut and then transferred to County General hospital for psychiatric examination and questioning by police.

The grandson was found beneath a blanket in the blood-spattered bedroom. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Kaiser hospital.

Authorities said his skull had been punctured in two places.

Police, after the murder, began a search for the boy's mother, who reportedly had gone to work. She is employed by the Pacific

Court Hears Argument on White Street

Richard L. Foster, superintendent of the Jefferson Elementary school district, testified in court Monday that the property held by the county for the so-called White street extension between Benjamin Franklin and Garden Village schools is required for the schools' physical education programs.

On the other hand, Supervisor William M. Werder and Sheriff's Lt. Donald J. Hartnett testified that the street extension is vital to the continued growth of the area and to efficient law enforcement.

Testimony from both sides was

Unification Hearing Set For Tonight

The public will have its chance to voice an opinion on school unification in the north county tonight when the San Mateo county committee on school reorganization holds a public hearing in the Little theater at Westmoor High school at 8.

The county committee, augmented by the elementary school boards of Jefferson, Laguna Salada, Brisbane and Bayshore, and the Jefferson Union High school, voted 11-4 last month to unify into one school district.

All four elementary boards voted against the unification plan.

The high school board, which is opposed to splintering its district, voted for the plan "in order to bring it to the people."

Since last month's meeting, several residents in Daly City and Colma have formed a group called the Daly City-Colma Unification committee to oppose the unification plan.

The citizen's committee is headed by Richard Newton, 732 Higate drive and Robert Crawford of 987 Wildwood avenue, Colma.

IN BOND VOTE

Construction of New Schools at Stake on Coast

Pacificans will vote on a bond issue again Tuesday and some say the future of their school system hangs in the balance.

Unless a $600,000 school bond issue and $6-million state loan authorization are approved by voters, there will be no more construction in the Laguna Salada after July 1.

This means no more schools for the new Fairmont and Portola Heights subdivisions, and it means probable double sessions next year in the district to house children from these subdivisions, officials say.

The bond issue means no increase in property taxes since the tax rate will remain at 45 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the maximum allowed by law. State funds are repaid only after local bonds are retired.

There is no outward opposition in Pacifica to the measure, though there seem to be indications in some quarters of a lack of completely unqualified support, observers note.

Stork Wins by Two Blocks

Mrs. James Walker of 70 Westline drive, Daly City, lost a close race with the stork Saturday—by two blocks.

Mercy ambulance attendants Michael McDonald and Robert Stephenson delivered Mrs. Walker of a 5 pound, 10 ounce boy two blocks away from Presbyterian Medical center in San Francisco.

The ambulance was that close to the hospital when Mrs. Walker said it was time.

Both mother and son were reported doing well this week. Mr. and Mrs. Walker are in the process of moving from Daly City to Marin county.

Hall Trial Is Readied In Pacifica

A jury of five women and seven men is expected to start today its deliberation of a murder charge against Joseph Pharr Hall of Pacifica.

Final arguments by counsel — prosecutor Allison Rouse and defense attorney John Putkey — continued yesterday in the court room of Superior Judge James T. O'Keefe. Trial was in its 12th day.

Putkey was expected to argue that the killing of Mrs. Lillian F. Wales in Pacifica March 11 was manslaughter at most — an act committed during a drunken argument. Hall, who said he drank 25 beers that day, admitted hitting Mrs. Wales. When she did not regain consciousness, the defendant said, he was sure she was dead and decided to dispose of the body by throwing it over a 135-foot cliff at Mori's Point.

"This is not manslaughter," Deputy District Attorney Rouse told the jury Monday. "It is murder. It is cold-blooded murder."

Referring to throwing the body over the cliff, Rouse asked:

"Could there have been anything more deliberate?"

Board Holds Salary Hike In Abeyance

The board of trustees of the Jefferson Elementary school district Monday night kept the door open for a possible salary raise for teachers later in the school year.

The trustees passed a "noncommittal" resolution reserving the right to consider salaries after July 1.

According to a section of the State Education Code, failure to reserve the right before that date would automatically rule out any salary consideration.

The action was requested Mrs. Iola McKeown, president of the Jefferson Classroom Teachers association, which is negotiating with the board for an approxi-

Trailer Court Turned Down

A proposal for two major developments, a trailer court on 387 acres at the eastern end of Pedro Valley and a 65-acre commercial and apartment development on Cabrillo highway between Vallemar and Rockaway Beach, failed to win final approval from Pacifica planning commissioners Monday night.

Plans for the trailer court development, which have already been under study for months, were held over until July 15 at the request of nearby property owners and the San Francisco water department. Previously the commission agreed to rezone the property to a planned community zone, a zoning that was concurred in by councilmen, who referred plans back to planners for final approval.

Ray Whitney, local real estate developer, agreed to drop plans to extend Reichling avenue into his new 65-acre development facing the highway after residents now on the street objected to the increased traffic load.

Instead, Whitney agreed to end Reichling avenue in a cul-de-sac with only a relatively few homes on it. Planners put over final approval of Whitney's commercial and apartment development until July 1 to give him time to revise subdivision maps.

Plans for the Linda Mar No. 31 tract, including enlargement of a shopping area from the six acres originally planned to 10.8 acres was approved despite a plea from Planning Consultant Edward Robinson that they be held for additional study. During a hearing on plans, commissioners discussed whether only one shopping center should be allowed at the eastern end of Pedro Valley, or whether two or more will eventually be required.

Also approved was a tentative map for Linda Mar 32 showing both ends of Lereida way filled in to connect Crespi drive with Terra Nova boulevard.

The commission granted Lawrence Wiechers a seven-year permit for a real estate office on Cabrillo highway across from Linda Mar boulevard.

A series of minor variances were reviewed.

C of C Unit Turns Down A Directory

Sponsorship of a business directory for Daly City was turned down by the board of directors of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

In rejecting sponsorship, the chamber turned away an estimated $2000 in income.

The main reason for the rejection was an understanding that the publication would not be a "full directory," according to chamber director Frank Curry.

A $15 listing fee is required for each business, he said.

The directory is being developed by George Nutter of Motivation unlimited.

Nutter appeared before the chamber last month to ask for th eendorsement. His request was referred to an executive committee for study.

Curry said that to leave a business out of the directory because it could not pay would be penalizing it.

"It would be like sponsoring a private business," he said.

Director Fred Martin and city hostess Ramona Birke spoke in favor of the directory.

Martin pointed out that the chamber would be receiving $2000 without putting out any effort.

Mrs. Burke, who is helping Nutter develop the directory, said that a "good portion" of it has already been sold.

She said that professional persons would be included without the $15 listing charge.

Bill Could Save Taxes

A bill that could save Pacifica taxpayers approximately $200,000 passed the assembly last week and now goes to senate committees for study.

Two Pacifica councilmen visited Sacramento recently to urge support for the bill, which proposes the state pay for the cost of relocating water lines when it builds new freeways.

Councilwoman Jean Fassler and Councilman Harland Minshew appeared before the assembly public utilities and the ways and means committees to urge passage of the bill.

Pacificans are concerned about the measure since under present law their local water district will have to pay the cost of relocating water lines under the new coastal freeway, soon to be constructed.

This could cost taxpayers of the North County Water district approximately $200,000.

Unless the bill passes, every consumer in the district will have to pay $26.82 over and above his regular share of the cost of the freeway and this brings the freeway only half-way through the district boundaries.

The state now pays for the cost of relocating telephone, gas and sewer but not water lines.

Mrs. Fassler and Minshew argued that if the freeway benefits all the people of the state, all should share the cost.

New Schools Depend Upon Laguna Vote

were working hard lobbying for the bond issue but the organization as a whole has declined to take a specific stand favoring it.

Ruth Boudinot, school board chairman who has personally been working hard for the bond issue, said she understood P-TA members did not wish to bring the bond issue up for approval before the membership, that it was considered controversial and that leaders feared it would split ranks.

It is believed that P-TA leaders also declined to spend organizational funds on promotion of the bond issue.

One active P-TA leader who asked not to be identified said in her opinion some people were concerned about excessive government spending and wanted to see better use of school buildings already in existence.

She said that, in her view, her youngsters did as well in double sessions as they do now on present single sessions and that they only have about ten more minutes of school.

She said she thought many working parents preferred single sessions so they could have baby-sitting service all-day for their children.

Many other P-TA members, however, are all for the bond issue and have been typing letters, distributing fact sheets and phoning neighbors to get out the vote for the bond issue.

Mrs. Carol Darnell, chairman of the Laguna Salada P-TA coordinating committee, has directed a large committee of Linda Mar residents in distributing flyers, putting posters up in shopping centers and calling on parents.

In Westview, trustee Rod Dailey has directed volunteers in a house - to - house campaign. School trustees were notified recently by the district attorney that they could lobby for the bond issue only as individuals, but could not do so as a board, or could they spend district funds to promote the issue.

In the Pacific Heights P-TA, Mrs. Herman Langbehm, president, and her committee have been distributing over 700 flyers to all voters registered on the precinct list. In Sharp Park personal letters were sent to 200 voters asking for their support.

Members of the American Association of University Women have been assisting by typing letters and distributing fact sheets.

Mrs. Boudimot said most of the volunteer work was being done on an individual, not an organizational basis. People came forward, she said, and then they brought in neighbors and friends to help.

White Street Plan Argued

to continue yesterday in the courtroom of Superior Judge Edmund Scott.

The school district, threatened with loss of its playground area if the street were put through, filed suit to condemn the right of way for what it contended was a higher public use. The county is fighting the move, arguing that the extension is needed to properly serve the citizenry of the area. It would provide a link between Broadmoor and the Westlake shopping district.

Fire Rating Bureau in San Francisco.

The company told investigators that Mrs. Salas had called in that morning and said she had a dentist's appointment and would not be in.

However, police checked with the dentist and he told them Mrs. Salas had not scheduled an appointment.

Later in the day, a neighbor told investigators that Mrs. Salas was at the home of Russell Hartmen of 2410 Rollingwood drive, San Bruno.

At 8 Friday night, Sgt. Terry went to the Hartmen house and informed Mrs. Salas what had happened that morning.

According to Terry, Mrs. Salas became hysterical. He said she would not believe at first what had happened.

Mrs. Salas then gave this story to Sgt. Terry:

She said her father was too strict with her in keeping her in the house all the time and not allowing her to go out except to work — even though she was 24 and married once.

She had stayed home for almost all of the last two years and went out for the first time on the night of June 15. After that, her father became angrier and angrier as the succeeding week went by.

Last Thursday night, she went out for the second time and didn't return home.

At the hospital, McCoy said he had argued with his daughter the night before the killing.

Friday morning, he said, he gave his grandson "three or four tranquilizers" and then struck the boy.

In a suicide note left on the kitchen table, the grandfather wrote:

"To Maureen . . . I gave him (the boy) about a dozen of your tranquilizers so he wouldn't suffer as much as I hope to do."

Police said McCoy is a roofer and had been unemployed since he fell from a roof more than a year ago. A pair of crutches was found in his home.

Board Holds Salary Hike In Abeyance

mate three per cent increase in pay.

In approving the resolution, board members emphasized the action did not commit the board to a salary raise and did not give the salary increase "priority" over other items that were being deleted from the budget.

Mrs. McKeown asked the board reconsider the salary request if more funds are made available by possible legislation in Sacramento.

The board also considered the salary request of members of the California School Employees association.

Trustees Dr. Donald Calvert and O. Wayne Douglas said the salaries of the classified employees "were not out of line" with the salaries of other districts in the Bay Area, and added they could see no valid reason for an increase.

Douglas asked for time, however, to consider some of the other requests by the classified employees. The board instructed School Superintendent Richard Foster to compile more information on the requests.

The board divided over granting a one-year leave of absence to guidance consultant Ray Graber.

Graber had asked for the leave to join the staff of San Francisco State college as a specialist in pupil personnel for its education team in Liberia.

The team would be under the auspices of the United States Agency for International Development and the Liberian government.

In recommending approval, Foster said: "There are limited ways in which we can reward our teachers. We want to do everything we can to encourage them to return to us."

Foster said even large businesses release top executives to work for the government in public service for periods of time.

The board approved Graber's leave by a 3-2 vote.

Thieves Take $2000, Drugs

Burglars broke into the Broadmoor Pharmacy, 2388 Junipero Serra boulevard, early Monday morning and got away with approximately $2000 in cash and a large quantity of drugs and hypnotics.

Entry into the store was made by drilling a hole in the roof and enlarging it with a crow-bar. The burglars broke into a safe where the drugs and money were kept.

Coast Advisory Policy Assailed

than trying to get them for their men.

He declared that only the police and fire chiefs have as much concern for the welfare of their men as department heads should have.

"The city workers themselves do not speak up before the board, their department heads speak for them and the workers are afraid to say anything," Kafantaris charged.

He said that one department head could not even adequately describe the duties of his employes, and on one occasion said no raise was warranted, because the employe knew what he was getting when he took the job.

The charges by Kafantaris about city employes were categorically denied by City Manager Karl Baldwin, when asked to comment on them.

He said department heads were certainly aware of the duties and needs of their employes. However, Baldwin said that further comment about Kafantaris' statements should come only from the city council.

Bird said he had never seen any fear or hesitation on the part of an employe before the board since he had been a member. Bird said requests were presented to the board directly by employes, with the department head present only to add information.

The chairman added, however, that he believed police and firemen were more accustomed to appearing before boards with requests and generally made better presentations.

Requests from employes in other departments were sometimes not well organized, Bird said, and sometimes it was difficult for the board to learn exactly what the employe wanted.

Kafantaris described the personnel board as "lost" since Lee Forster was dismissed by the city council as chairman. Forster, a weekly news reporter, was charged with having a conflict of interest.

Commenting on Kafantaris' resignation, which was accepted verbally by the council last week, Mayor Harold Feyge said only that he thought Kafantaris made some good points and that he was entitled to his opinion.

Vice Chairman Harland Minshew said that Kafantaris should have come to the city council with his complaints, whatever they were, and that if there was evidence to support his charges, corrections could be made.

Tedd Thompson, a recent appointee to the board, said he would not comment except to say that he disagreed with Kafantaris' way of looking at things, that a lot of good could be done with the board.

By DON MILLER

A COMMITTEE of three state senate Democrats last week released a report of far more than usual interest—a report, incidentally, that received and deserved the top play it was given in the daily press.

It was a report on extremist activities in California. Much of it was devoted to the John Birch society.

The 202-page document, completed after two years of investigation, was signed by Senate President Pro-Tem Hugh M. Burns of Fresno and Senators Aaron W. Quick of Calexico and Stephen P. Teale of West Point.

The sum and substance of their findings is that the nation's most populous state continues to lead also in the number and strength of groups of the extreme.

As far as the John Birchers are concerned, the report indicated, these people belong to neither a secret nor a fascist organization. And the report added:

"We find the John Birch society to be a right, anti-Communist, fundamentalist organization . . . we have found the great majority of its members in California not to be mentally unstable, crackpots or hysterical. . . ."

So, in general, the Birchers got a pretty clean bill of health, although the senators didn't think such a large number of way-out organizations in California was as healthy.

Well, we're not that thoroughly conversant with the John Birch society nor with the leaders who make it go to say we're ready or not ready to go along with what our legislators have concluded.

Instead, we've got a story for you today and we'll let you judge for yourself after we've told it whether the right wing in our midst is as proper and fundamentalist as the senators seem to think it is.

THIS IS the story of what happened in a large San Francisco department store just a few weeks ago.

To protect our source, we won't name the organization. Suffice to say, its management was apparently either far too frightened or too short-sighted to inform the police or general media of what had happened.

And just what happened is this:

One evening, a buyer in the store's china department returned from dinner to find a vice president of the store carefully selecting and pulling merchandise from shelves and displays.

The merchandise he was selecting was all china and gift-ware manufactured in Czechoslovakia. The executive looked extremely worried, almost panicky. The buyer immediately sensed what was going on. For the same thing had occurred six months prior.

The executive told the buyer to remove from the sales floor all Czechoslovakian-labeled merchandise and then left for a conference with other store executives.

While the buyer was doing as he had been instructed, a man, accompanied by a woman, approached him and asked authoritatively:

"What are you going to do with this merchandise—are you going to keep it off the floor?"

His tone was almost demanding. The buyer replied he didn't know what the policy would be. The man and woman left.

Exactly one hour later, three men in their late teens or early twenties walked into the china department and began examining every piece of merchandise.

The buyer later described them as "young hoods—exactly the type you'd see in a gangster movie."

Apparently satisfied all Czechoslovakian items had been removed, the three men moved into an adjacent housewares department and when they came across some Czech goods, one of the trio indignantly barked at a saleslady:

"Doesn't Mr. — keep his word? This is Iron Curtain merchandise. Pull it off the floor!"

The saleslady, however, was the spunky sort and said she took orders only from her boss. The trio left.

Subsequently, the store did, indeed, remove all Czechoslovakian items from shelves and display cases. It was some time before the merchandise re-appeared, on sale, and then only because the store's top executive so directed.

Nonetheless, no further orders were placed with the supplier of these items. Our source indicated further that the chances of finding this type of merchandise anywhere in the area would be remote.

When the same group of people made the same demand in this store six months ago, they threatened physical violence to the department head if the Iron Curtain merchandise was not taken from the shelves.

When the executive refused, only a call to the store's police averted an incident.

THESE ALMOST unbelievable incidents illustrate just one of the ways in which the Far Right is operating these days right in our midst.

Whether Czechoslovakian goods should be marketed in this country is a decision our elected representatives in Washington decide. When a group of hoods start making the decision—and get it successfully enforced—then our democratic processes start to crumble.

This sort of erosion and how it grows was described by two Jewish salesladies in the aforementioned department store who witnessed the entire sequence of events.

What they saw, our source says, terrified them. Both women had lost most of their families to the Nazis in World War II.

After the three hoods had left the store, one of the salesladies commented:

"This is the way things started in Germany. The small Nazi minority before the war acted in the same way. These little people became big people. They started out by demanding small things. Each time they got their way, their demands got bigger. Pretty soon, instead of a piece of merchandise removed from a shelf it was a Jew removed to a concentration camp."

SAN FRANCISCO isn't the only city in which this sort of coercion has been tried. The same crowd acted in the same way in Los Angeles against a large, well-known department store.

When the store refused to pull Iron Curtain merchandise off its floors, these people infiltrated the store on the sly and stuffed pamphlets into the merchandise. The pamphlets declared: "This store supports communism."

In New York City, however, a similar pressure campaign failed when retailers banded together and ran full-page newspaper ads, exposing the campaign and explaining why our government trades with certain countries.

PACIFICA COUNCIL ACTION

Backing Denied UN Unit

Pacifica city councilmen flatly rejected a request last week that they endorse formation of a county chapter of the United Nations, an action that has been completely routine and passed almost without notice in most other cities in the county.

Although council members Jean Fassler and Fred Ballew spoke in favor of the organization, a resolution prepared by City Attorney Conrad Reisch was held over at the insistence of Mayor Harold Feyge and Councilman Harland Minshew.

Several members of the audience spoke against passage of the resolution, which was referred to the local chapter of the American Association of University Women after a lengthy discussion.

When several members of the audience demanded the resolution also be referred to the local American Legion post, Feyge said it would not be necessary as the council would not have to accept any recommendation.

While pointing out that the international situation probably should not be discussed on the city governmental level, Feyge asserted that it is the "American taxpayer" who has to pay for most of the "financial mess" of the United Nations.

He said he didn't agree with the UN's actions in the Congo, and claimed, that the Alger Hiss and communistic and Russian influence is still strong in the United Nations. Councilman George Mason had left before the meeting.

The council agreed to ask the state division of highways to designate the Edgemar freeway and Skyline boulevard in the city as an "experimental area for all traffic safety devices," after receiving word from state officials that "cat's-eyes" reflectors could not be installed on traffic lanes on the Edgemar freeway because they are still in the experimental stage.

In other actions, councilmen:

Concurred in a planning commission decision in rejecting a request of Planning Commissioner Paul Selmi that two acres owned by him on Rosita road be rezoned to an apartment area.

Approved an application of William Messer that seven lots on the west side of Palmetto avenue between Salada and San Jose avenues be rezoned to permit construction of a large welding shop.

Agreed to set up a joint meeting with Daly City councilmen to discuss a land trade between the two cities.

Granted a permit to Frank Lottice and Harold Horstimeyer to pick up scrap metal from about the city and haul it away.

St. Clair Inks Pact With 49ers

The San Francisco 49ers announced the signing Saturday of tackle Bob St. Clair, six-foot nine-inch veteran who was sidelined for the last half of the 1962 season because of an injured achilles tendon.

St. Clair told coach Red Hickey, who is in charge of bargaining with the players this year, that he had fully recovered from the injury and was ready to head into his eleventh season in the National Football league.

St. Clair played football at the University of San Francisco and signed him as their third draft choice.

He is a Daly City councilman.

Tanforan Doomed?

San Bruno's Tanforan race track, once a flourishing spot for the top thoroughbreds in the nation, has encountered its first step of doom.

A state senate bill, approved yesterday by the assembly ways and means committee, would allow the state horse racing board to permit owners of one track to have interest in another.

The bill, introduced by Senator of Eugene McAteer, Democrat of San Francisco, would allow Bay Meadows track to consolidate interests. The result would be the elimination of Tanforan.

McAteer said that the merger would improve the operations by permitting bigger purses. He said that there has not been any opposition to the bill to date.

Tanforan is due to open for a thoroughbred meet September 12.

Concours Is Sunday

Entry blanks for the 19-Class event may be obtained by writing to Guardsmen Concours d'Elegance, San Francisco region, Sports Car Club of America, 1201 Van Ness avenue, San Francisco 9, or to Guardsmen headquarters, 690 Market street, San Francisco. Entry fee for each car is $3.

McGuire Quits Football Club

Dan McGuire, publicity and public relations director of the San Francisco 49ers Professional Football club for the past 13 years, resigned today to take a similar position with the Nugget casino and lodge at Sparks, Nev.

The white-haired publicist, graduated from University of California in 1939, was a war correspondent for United Press in 1943-44 in the Pacific. He also served on newspapers in Berkeley and Oakland, Calif., and Honolulu.

The Nugget, one of the Reno area's largest gambling casinos, said McGuire would direct its publicity and promotional activities.

Golfers Enter Tournament

Twelve North county golfers will participate in the third annual Wilson's Invitational Golf tournament at Northwood Golf course in Guerneville Sunday.

The golfers include Frank Falconi, Bill Boyd, Ceasar Figari, Steve Figari, Ernest Perazzo, Frank Lagomarsino, Tony Patch, Goose Gosland, Bob Shauer, Fred Brown and Ed Wilson.

Democratic Club To Meet Tonight

The Daly City-Colma Democratic club will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at the Broadmoor Community center, 716 White street.

President Vincent Cauchi will report on the annual Smorgasbord held bythe club last month. Cauchi said the luncheon was a "huge success" mainly because of the oustanding work done by the committee members.

at the POST

I READ where Dino Restilli, former San Francisco Seal-Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder, is claiming a disability pension on the grounds that he injured his back several years ago in the line of duty while on the San Francisco police force.

Dino, you may remember, was considered by many at one time to be the next Joe DiMaggio.

To be sure, he had the right kind of name, was from North Beach, and, in truth, possessed much of the big man's fluidity and grace. He could even actually run, field and throw, and, in fact, did hit Coast league pitching. As a 20-year-old starting his pro career in AAA baseball, Restelli hit .343 in 38 games for the '44 Seals.

The army interrupted his career in '45 and for most of '46, but in 1947 he came back hitting .292 with 10 homers in 119 games (and in the ultra-big Seals stadium at that time, 10 home runs was a goodly number).

He backed that up with a .289 average and 10 more homers and 80 rbi's in 145 games in '48. His big Coast league year was in 1949. After 72 games the Pirates acquired him when he was hitting at a vicious .351 clip, had 10 home runs and 65 rbi's.

They placed him in the same outfield as Ralph Kiner, and for a few short weeks Dino had the Pirates forgetting Ralph was even there. He hit something like eight homers in his first 12 games, and became the new toast of Pittsburgh.

And then, according to the legend, Pirate fans helped the downfall of Dino when they initiated a custom of presenting him with something like a case of spaghetti with every home run.

The legend goes that Dino, not wanting to hurt his constituents, ate it all single-handedly, a feat that made him a hero in North Beach, but, eventually, a bum in the National league.

After a while, it was said, Dino couldn't bring the bat around his inflated paunch, much less shag flies. Luckily, Dino stopped hitting home runs at the 12 figure, or he would have ended up looking like a young Joe Cronin.

And since Dino didn't have the requisites required of a commissioner of baseball, this would have been disastrous. What else can a fat guy do in baseball if he can't be a commissioner?

ANYWAY, 72 Pittsburgh games later, Dino carted his 12 home runs and .250 batting average back to North Beach and never again saw the light of the majors except for a brief 21-game appearance in 1951 in which he hit .183.

There were, of course, other excuses for Dino's collapse. Some Restelli advocates even took the opposite view of the spaghetti story, claiming that Dino lost too much weight in the Eastern summer (which, actually, has caused other coasters to flop), and couldn't retain his strength.

There were other less knowledgeable people who opined that Dino's nemesis was a pitch called the curve ball, and that, strangely, was probably the best answer of all.

Getting back to Dino's disability claim, while I have no way of knowing whether or not he aggravated his back while in the line of police duty, I think it is safe to assume that he does have a bad back.

He broke it on curve balls in the summer of '49!

EVERY TIME I read a sports page lately, it seems, another old neighborhood kid is doing something big in sports.

Latest name is Dr. Ron Luceti, the army dentist who recently got past the first couple of rounds of the British amateur. This wasn't, on the face of it, a spectacular feat, but when you consider that Luceti went into the tournament a virtual unknown, (despite his clippings proclaiming him the one-time boy whiz of Harding) and managed to get that far against much better known golfers, it had to be considered somewhat in upset proportions.

I remember Luceti, now a Daly City resident, as a skinny little kid who used to spend his afternoons at San Francisco's Portola playground, alternately beating up his little brother, Jackie (who's a couple of years younger than 26-year-old Ronnie and who, at one time, was a better golfer), and trying to learn to play baseball, a game at which he wasn't especially proficient.

I guess it was when Luceti found he couldn't get in any of the neighborhood games unless he furnished the ball, that he took up golf, because suddenly he was showing up at the park with a golf club instead of a glove, and in no time at all was using the pitcher's mound as a sand trap and substituting neighbor kids for the rough.

When he became proficient enough to test the tensile strength of windows on houses across the street from the playground, he graduated to Harding — but not before, allow me to add, repaying Portola playground for use of its facilities by replacing all his divots.

JUST GOT around to reading Leo Durocher's piece in a national magazine that comes out Saturday evenings.

I really don't think the article's as controversial as it was cracked up to be. After all, Leo merely called Horace Stoneham a drunkard, Fred Haney a liar, and Happy Chandler an incompetent. I mean, he doesn't even come close to Benedict Arnold. Brutus, maybe.

Bobby Walston, end and placekicker who retired recently from the National Football league, played 148 consecutive games in 12 years with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Westlake Bowl

ALL ROADS will lead to Westlake Saturday night for the opening squad in the sixth annual Daly City Police Athletic league benefit bowling tournament. There have been many advance registrations for the squad which should break last year's record of 253 as the largest group in bowling history to compete at the same time.

Following the 7 p.m. bowling, there will be dancing from nine to one and a buffet at 11. As in the past, the cost will be $3 per person with $1 going to the Police Athletic league. Once again, the members of the Daly Cty police department have done an excellent job in obtaining many valuable prizes.

Serra Bowl

DON AHLEMEYER pounded out the week's high game in the Sharpshooters summer league action last Thursday as his Freden & Co. team dropped three out of four games to the Alley Cats. Don ended his three game effort with a mighty 237 game after a dismal 101 and 132 bginning.

In th same loop Bob Rd, 188 average kegler, bowled his average to the pin with a 231 high single and a 564 trio for his Also Ran team who were defeated by the Wilsey-Bennett company five.

Wednesday night in the summettime is Scotch Doubles night at Serra Bowl. Over 80 couples converged on the lanes last week to compete in this weekly event which starts at 9 p.m. with pay-offs immediately following the last squad. Sandy Morabito and Al Coulter took home the top prize of $41 the first week on a fine 678 series with handicap.

Don Gee and Carol Fahey garnered second spot with 644 to pick up $20 and Dottie Tenner and Bob Calhoun earned $13.60 in third place with their 636 combination. Five other prizes paid $30 plus free merchandise gifts to lucky number holders in the tourney.

Little Gary Gil blasted a big score Monday night in the 810 Scratch league at Serra as he paced his Bouquet Florist team in a three to nothing sweep over Flying Goose Trophys. Gary tumbled a steady 192, 210, 199 for a 601 tally and high scoring honors for the league.

Lady league bowlers will have something to shoot at Fridays in the daytime at Serra starting next week when the new Powderpuff 3-6-9 tournament gets underway. The gals will bowl three games on a 2-3 handicap between their average and 200. With a guaranteed strike in the third, sixth, and ninth frames scores should soar. Top scores will receive cash awards every week and free merchandise drawings will add to the sweetness of the pot.

A Scene to be Repeated

RE-ENACTMENT—Shown presenting an oversized check for $4,623.50 to Police Chief Roland Petrocchi and Patrolman Lester Bastedo are Ora Swanson, wife of Westlake Bowl owner John Swanson, Henry Doelger, head of the building firm in his name and Fred Bertetto. Occasion was a re-enactment of the check presentation after the first annual Daly City Police Athletic league benefit bowling tournament in 1959. The sixth annual tournament kickoff will be held at Westlake Bowl Saturday. Competition will run until August 4.

Golds Take 1st in Midget-American

The OLPH Golds jumped into first place in the Midget-American league to highlight baseball action last week in leagues sponsored by the Daly City Recreation department.

In other action, the PAL Cardinals continued to head the Midget-National league, the PAL Dodgers continued as leaders in the Intermediate loop and the PAL Tigers remained in first place in the Junior league.

Here is a rundown of play in the four leagues:

MIDGET NATIONAL

The Cardinals downed the PAL Yankees, 10-0. The OLM Leopards squeezed by the BYA Bender Roofing Cats, 6-5, the PAL Indians beat the Cats, 7-4, and the OLM Leopards shutout the Cardinals, 2-0.

Highlight of the league's games was a glittering no-hitter hurled by Gary Wilson of the Cardinals against the Yankees. In addition to this spotless pitching, Wilson also picked up two singles.

MIDGET-AMERICAN

In a busy week of action, the PAL Redsox won their first games of the season.

Sugar 'n' Spice

By Nell Norton

"School's out, school's out. Teacher turned the monkeys out . . .," or at least that's what we used to sing. The kiddies today probably have different lyrics, possibly with a Bossa Nova beat, but the idea is the same. And the effect is exactly the same. After the first delirious days of freedom, there comes the next phase, "What's to do?" "Where can we go?" And most of us start planning picnics and outings for the summer days.

Evidentally, Mrs. Barbara Thompson of 54 Westfield drive, Daly City, is making such plans for I have a letter from her asking for some ideas for "prepare-ahead-heat-and-serve dishes." Barbara also writes that her children like to cook and would like some dishes that they could prepare.

This chili recipe is delicious and easy enough for youngsters to make.

CHILI

4 slices bacon
1 large onion
4 stalks celery
parsley
1½ pounds ground meat
2 cans kidney beans
2 cans solid pack tomatoes
4 bay leaves
2 teas. chili powder (more or less, depending on how much heat your taste buds can stand)
salt and pepper

Fry bacon until crisp and drain on paper towel. Chop the onion, celery and parsley and fry until golden in the bacon drippings. In a large saucepan, combine the drained beans, solid pack tomatoes, bay leaves and the cooked vegetables and crumble the bacon into this mixture.

Next, brown the ground meat in the same skillet in which you cooked the bacon and vegetables (no need to dirty another pan) and when it's nicely browned and broken up pour into the saucepan with the rest of the ingredients. Simmer, very slowly, for one hour, adding the chili powder, mixed with a little water during the last half hour of cooking.

PERSONALLY, I think if you cook it and then let it stand for a while and reheat it, the flavor is better. The various things seem to sort of switch around together-and the second day is even better than the first. So this is a dish that you can make the night before, cool, refrigerate and then just reheat when you rush home after an outing.

A wonderful "stretcher" for this dish is to add a can or two (depending on how far it has to stretch) of prepared spaghetti. Serve with French bread and a salad, it's wonderful.

GARDEN VEGETABLE SALAD

1 can green beans
1 can green peas
1 large sweet onion
1 large cucumber (unpeeled)
4 stalks celery
1 can pimiento
1 large green pepper

DRESSING

1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup vinegar
½ cup salad oil
¾ cup sugar
1½ Tbsp. water

Drain the canned vegetables and combine. Slice onion and cucumber thinly, crosswise. Chop celery pimiento and pepper. Mix all ingredients in a 4-quart bowl.

To make dressing, combine all the ingredients and shake until the sugar is dissolved. Pour over vegetables and refrigerate for 24 hours. Toss the salad 2 or 3 times during the 24 hours so that the dressing will marinate all the vegetables. Makes a large salad, serving 10.

Teenager Asks . . .

By JOE BAVARESCO

Dear Mr. Baveresco:

I am 13 years old, my friends all say I look 16 or 17. I have been going out with boys who are 17 and 18 years old and they think I am 16. My parents say I'm wrong and that I should go out with boys my age. But boys my age are not mature enough for me. They bore me. Don't you think I should date boys 17 and 18 if they appeal to me?

J. D.

Dear J. D.:

Who are you trying to kid? Certainly not me. You want someone to tell you that what you are doing is right, because you, down deep, don't believe you are right in going out with older boys and telling them you are 16. You are wrong on all counts.

First, you are cheating yourself out of the fun and excitement of growing up as a young teenager and you are jumping into a group that is older and whose problems are a lot different than yours.

Second, you are cheating the guys you are dating. What would happen to you if they found out you were 13? Do you think they would still date you? Well, they would probably drop you like a hot potato.

Third, you are cheating your friends. You can be having a ball with them and do the things they do.

When you date guys three and four years older than you, you are asking for trouble. They have experience and if you are not really careful you'll find yourself so far in trouble you wouldn't believe the results.

So, Miss 13, my advice is grow up and act your age. Your own age.

Dear Mr. Bavaresco;

I realize this is a column strictly for teen-agers, but I am a parent of two teen-agers and I have spoken to several parents about your column. We agree it is the finest. We parents are truly upset about the way teen-agers are dancing. I watched them on TV and I am shocked beyond words. Some of the girls were terrible. What is being done?

A Disturbed Parent

Dear Disturbed Parent:

Yes, I know what you mean. You ask what is being done? I say "what can be done?" I have seen several new dances and I agree it looks like a rehearsal hall of a burlesque theater.

However, you can't turn it off like you do your automobile. When your car starts to shimmy you take it to the mechanic and he goes to the source of the trouble.

So, too, with the dancing. The source of trouble is the music and who are the people who make a song a hit? The teen-agers. So it is a vicious circle and nothing can be done, unless you stop the music or cage the teen-agers.

Really, what they are doing is only what was done in the 1920's and 30's and 40's, so parents: don't be too harsh. You may become embarrassed, because if you search your mind I'm sure you may notice a strong similarity between the Charleston, jitterbug, bop and buggy—the dances today's teen-agers are doing.

I would rather see kids dancing no matter what fashion — than parked in a car, hiding somewhere drinking and getting into worse trouble. Remember dear parents, it's not the dances that have changed, it's the dancers.

Teen-agers! If you have problems or questions you'd like discussed, you may send them to me, care of The Post, or simply to Joe Bavaresco, Camp Meeker, Calif.

Two Injured In Accidents

Two persons were injured in traffic accidents in Daly City Thursday.

Stephen Angell, 10, of 23 Eaton avenue, Daly city suffered a bruised right knee and ear cut when his bicycle and an auto driven by Carole A. Iacopi of 46 Crestwood drive, collided on Skyline drive, south of Palisades drive.

Georgia Harrison, 66, of San Francisco, suffered lacerations when her auto and a car driven by Liston Lee, 30, also of San Francisco, collided in front of 2075 Junipero Serra boulevard. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital in San Francisco.

School Budget Is Delayed

Superintendent Frederick Lucas reported to trustees of the Laguna Salada elementary school district last week that he cannot submit a budget to them for the coming year yet because he has been unable to determine what the district's income will be for the coming year.

The district's income will depend on current state legislation which if approved will increase state allocations to impoverished school districts, Lucas said.

The board questioned the expulsion of a third grade student recently from the district, but Lucas explained that the district cannot afford special facilities for badly emotional disturbed children. He explained that the child had to be expelled because he completely disrupted classroom teaching. Lucas said it is now up to the parent to get additional help for the child as the county has no facilities for such children.

The board informally supported a resolution of the state board of deucation endorsing a policy to allow local school district to select supplemental reading for children and urging local districts not to bow to either state or local pressure to have library books removed from shelves.

Lucas was instructed to meet with an outside school superintendent who has already used a state personnel survey to determine salaries for classified employes to determine if such a salary survey should be made within the district.

SLEEPING BAGS STOLEN

Kenneth Van Aken of 178 Abbott avenue, Daly City, told Daly City police last week that thieves had stolen five sleeping bags from his car, parked in front of his home. He said the bags were valued at a total of $60.

Boys Charged With Vandalism

Three young boys were arrested by Daly City police over the weekend in connection with vandalism to 10 autos parked in a storage lot of Gateway Chevrolet company on Hill street.

The boys, 11, 13, and 13, were given juvenile citations and released in the custody of their parents.

Ram Drama Students End Year

Westmoor High future dramatists last week presented studies in various areas of the theater-from puppetry to costume design.

The final projects included sophomore Flip Reade's scale model of the W.H.S. Little Theater, for use by teacher Robin Jackson and his students in creating stage sets, and a model in plaster of the Greek theater made by senior Bob Post.

Among the several costumes made by the students was Sutton Doeg's dress in pink and brown from "My Fair Lady." Her costume included a bright flowered hat typical of Eliza Doolittle.

An unusual approach was taken by Sharon Ellingson whose hand puppets demonstrated the techniques of one of the oldest forms of the drama. Sharon also included illustrations and information on the earliest as well as newest forms of puppetry. A marionette was presented by Roxanne Shupe as a supplement to that area of study.

Among those who presented stage sets for plays was Linda Rundell who made the set, stage flat, and character costume for George Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House," Act I, Scene I. Linda used a variety of materials for her project, among them lambs wool and a light bulb holder.

Chamber Will Seat Officers

Wally Blake, former newspaper publisher, radio and television executive, advertising agency owner and a veteran of shopping center promotion, has been named promotion manager of the Westlake Shopping Center.

His appointment was announced by Dick Owen, president of the Westlake Business and Professional association.

Durng 1960, Blake spent nine months touring shopping centers in 23 states as dierctor for one of the nation's largest and oldest shopping center promotion programs.

He comes to Westlake from a position as director of advertising and promotion for the Seabreeze Construction company of San Rafael. The firm's general offices were moved from San Diego to San Rafael in November.

Prior to joining Seabreeze, Blake was director of promotion for the Mission Valley Center, the largest shopping complex in San Diego. He also served as the promotion director of the Clairemont Quad Shopping center in that city.

His career also has included nership of three midwest newspapers and a period as director of public relations, handling all advertising and promotion activities, of Imperial 400 Motels incorporated in Los Angeles during that company's early development.

Blake and his wife, Ruth, are the parents of four children—two married daughters, a third daughter, Linda, who graduated from San Rafael High school last week and a son, David, 9. Linda has won a scholarship to Pepperdine college in Los Angeles.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

Employment Up in Area Last Month

Bay Area employment in May increased in line with the normal pattern for this time of year, while the rise in joblessness was slightly greater than usual, according to statements released by two state officials.

Civilian employment in the San Francisco - Oakland Metropolitan area increased seasonally by 7700 to a record May total of 1,199,600, Ernest B. Webb, director of the department of industrial relations, announced.

This total represented a growth in jobs from May 1962 of 30,200, or 2.6 per cent.

All industry divisions participated in the April-May rise in employment. The largest month-to-month increase was in construction as good weather spurred activity and 3200 jobs were added in the industry.

Manufacturing gained 1500 workers with the largest increase centered in seasonal canning.

Small gains in services and in finance-insurance-real estate pushed employment in these two divisions to new highs.

From May 1962, the largest expansion occurred in trade with a gain of 7600 jobs.

Employment in construction was higher by 6300 but part of this over-the-year gain reflected the low level of cause of a work stoppage.

Services added 5000 workers and government (mainly education) gained 4400.

Over 70 per cent of the 3900 additional jobs in manufacturing since a year ago was in th efood processing industry.

The only decline from last year occurred in agriculture, where 700 fewer workers were employed this May than in May 1962.

The number of unemployed persons in the San Francisco-Oakland Metropolitan area increased by 190 0over the past 30 days, Albert B. Tieburg, director of the department of employment, said.

Fiscal Plan Is Adopted

A record $41,173,675 final budget for the 1963-64 fiscal year was approved last week by the county board of supervisors.

Controller Ira A. Boynton said the total is $764,953 over the preliminary budget and $2,939,129 more than the 1962-63 operating budget.

Despite the increase, County Manager E. R. Stallings has predicted that the basic county tax rate can be cut by at least one cent. If so, it would be the fifth year in a row that the rate, which now stands at $1.6111 for each $100 of assessed property value, is reduced.

Stallings told the board that, despite the increase in the budget total, San Mateo county will continue to have the lowest per capita budget in the state.

The increase over the preliminary budget, Stallings explained, was caused by the necessity to add more than $1 million because of new social service legislation adopted by the state legislature this year.

Vet Commander Is Hospitalized

Seniors Challenge the World

Editors Note: Graduation ceremonies at three high schools in the north county were held last week with 703 seniors receiving their degrees.

At Westmoor, 205 students graduated, at Jefferson High, 230 seniors graduated and at Terra Nova 203 students graduated.

This spech at Westmoor by Jim Rutledge is typical of the talks given in similar ceremonies throughout the nation.

The title of his speech is "Today the classroom, tomorrow the world."

By JIM RUTLEDGE

"Today the classroom, tomorrow the world."

When Joseph Henry, founder of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D. C., was a small boy, his grandmother offered to have a pair of shoes made for him. She sent him to the cobler for the necessary foot measurements.

The cobbler, after taking down the required data, asked Joseph which style of shoe he preferred, round toed or square toed. Unable to make the decision, Joseph returned home. Every day for the next two weeks, Joseph went back to the shop, but found that he could not decide which style to choose.

Finally, one day, the cobbler handed him his finished shoes. One had a round toe, one had a square toe.

Later Joseph Henry remarked: "I had to wear those monuments to indecision for a long time, and they taught me as nothing else could, the penalty one must pay for failing to make up his mind."

We have all been in this same state of indecision. One such problem existed four years ago when graduation from junior high school placed us face to face with the dilemma of choosing a high school curriculum.

There were certain subjects which all freshmen had to take. But there were also courses Would it be the square toe or the round toe? French or German, art or woodshop.

THIS PROBLEM was but one of the many we were to face along the path to our high school diploma. Not only did the classwork become more difficult, but new pressures presented themselves. Competition had become increasingly keen. Our parents began to push us to do well. And we, as students, suddenly began to realize that if we were to make anything of our lives, now was the time to begin.

But that was yesterday. Today we have only the memory of our high school experiences to cherish. That first football game, and the victory dance which followed; that hectic double session of our sophomore year; the junior prom and the senior ball; these activities, and countless others will never be forgotten.

However, we cannot live on memories, no matter how sweet they may be. The future must be faced and high school has given us the necessary tools with which to face it.

Another decision lies before us now; a decision which most of us will have to live with a lifetime. Joseph Henry undoubtedly outgrew his "monuments to indecision." However, what we now decide to do with our lives will be a very difficult thing to outgrow.

FOR MANY the decision has been completed with the choice of a college. Other find that a job is the immediate goal. Still others may determine it best to complete their military obligation, and through this means select a vocation.

Whatever the decision, the outcome is up to us. Our graduation tonight signifies that we now have the ability to meet the world and accept the responsibilities which it holds.

On October 4, 1957 the Soviet Union shocked the world with its announcement that Sputnik I, the earth's first artificial satellite had been launched. Suddenly the United States realized that it no longer held the lead in many fields. If the United States is to regain its leadership over Russia, each citizen must do his part.

As we enter an adult society, we inherit this task, this responsibility to our country, to ourselves and to our world. High school, through its many varied courses, has provided us with a foundation upon which to build an understanding of our culture.

Through classes in the social studies field we have gained an insight into the past.

By studying history we were able to learn the mistakes of other peoples and therefore avoid making the same ones ourselves.

Civics, economics and sociology gave us valuable information about our system of government, showing its strengths and its weaknesses.

The English field gave us a basic understanding of the fundamentals of our language, as well as a background in American and world literature.

WHETHER we chose French or German, we were given a thorough study of the language, and the ability to use it adequately.

Science and mathematics helped us to develop inquiring minds, minds that could ask questions, and then go about finding the answers. Being able to reason is a valuable asset for anyone, and study in these two fields nurtured that talent.

In addition to these basic courses, some of us desired to explore subjects which fit our special interests, such as band, choir or one of the several shop courses. For the girls, home economics lent valuable assistance in preparing for their future as homemakers.

Yes, we have been given the foundation. But we must not let this foundation crumble because we are leaving high school, for education does not end when formal schooling is over. Education is a life long proposition.

When a person stops learning he might as well stop living, for the two go hand in hand. Alfred Lord Tennyson, in his poem, Ulysses, writes these immortal words pertaining to man's purpose in life: "To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

AS WE, the graduating class of 1963, prepare to leave our old world, and step into a new, we would like to thank all those who have combined to make this event possible. To our parents who encouraged us when we most needed it, who stood by us in times of stress; to our teachers who, through their dedication, prepared us for this moment of decision, and to our many friends both in school and out, who have influenced our development these past four years, we express our deep and sincerest gratitude.

Today we have faced the classroom — tomorrow we will challenge the world!

Ryan Speaks At Graduation

"I can assure you a greater degree of state support for schools," Assemblyman Leo Ryan, speaking at Sanchez school promotion exercises in Pacifica, told parents.

Ryan said he just came from Sacramento where the budget was being discussed and that he expected to see measures passed that would afford relief for Pacifica taxpayers.

He also referred to help forthcoming for the Pacifica freeway and water district. (A bill was just passed by the assembly designating the state to pay for the cost of relocating water lines under the new coastal freeway, a saving of some $200,000 to the North County Water district.)

For most of his talk, Ryan addressed himself to the 70 graduating eighth graders, particularly urging them to develop the "courage to be different when your high school crowd urges you to do something that you know is not right."

Ryan, himself a high school teacher, told the youngsters they also need respect for their parents and a fundamental belief or morality to fall back on. He also urged them to stay in school, pointing out they will earn twice the money if they continue through college than they would if they stop now.

A record number of 520 youngsters received diplomas in the six Laguna Salada elementary schools last week, an increase of 67 over last year's total.

Councilwoman Jean Fassler, speaking at Sharp Park school, told the students that getting an education was like building a house: they got their good foundation, a strong solid support, during the first eight years in elementary school, would build the structure in high school, and would finish the interior in college.

It is important to go on, she said, telling the youngsters that they will be furnishing the house for the rest of their lives.

Vallemar school had three student speakers: Michael Buskey, Penny Ambrosen and Leslie Haney. Linda Mar school had short talks by eight of its graduates: Judy Carr, Steve Wilson, Aleena Branson, Gary Topolinski, Mary Vella, Janet Nickel, Marilyn Kelley and Gretchen Ulrich.

Westmoor Soph Places In Contest

Westmoor High school sophomore Linda Wallace placed third in the Chinese speech contest at San Francisco State college recently.

Sponsored by the Carnegie Chinese Project, the speech contest was open to first-year students of Mandarin Chinese.

Twenty - two contestants delivered five-minute speeches in Chinese without the aid of notes. Those with some Chinese language background were graded in a separate category.

First prize of a $50 scholarship check, books on China, and citation was awarded to Steve Ruppenthal of Cubberley High for his humorous account of an outing with his girl friend.

Library in Heights Set

A free summer library program, sponsored by the Pacific Heights P-TA, will be offered again for children of the Pacific Heights area beginning Tuesday.

The library will be at the Pacific Heights school and will be open from 1:30 p.m. to 3p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday, it will be closed July 4.

P-TA volunteers, under the direction of Mrs. Lawrence Burger, library chairman, will staff the library. Children may read at the library as well as check books out for home-reading. The program will close Thursday, August 15.

PEACH TRIFLE — New version of an old favorite glamorizes this dessert.

Old Dessert's A Trifle Better

You certainly won't be trifling your time away when you whip together "Peach Trifle."

This 1962 version of an old-fashioned favorite glamorizes the dessert grandmother used to make and turns it into a brand-new, party-pretty treat. You probably have all the ingredients on hand to prepare it early in the day so that it has a chance to be chilled properly. It's simplicity itself to assemble, thanks to such convenience foods as canned cling peach halves, pudding mix, almond extract and slivered almonds. And it's also an economical dessert, using up leftover cake.

Clings, whether halves or slices, are always one of the most economically-priced canned fruits on grocery shelves. That's one reason they are found on so many kitchen shelves to help busy homemakers create taste delights such as "Peach Trifle."

PEACH TRIFLE

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach halves
2 or 3 cups day-old pound cake, cubed (or angel food cake or any plain cake)
1 package (3¼ oz.) vanilla pudding mix
3 cups milk
½ teaspoon almond extract
½ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
¼ cup toasted slivered almonds

Drain peach halves, reserving syrup. Arrange cubes of cake in serving bowl. Spoon enough peach syrup over cubes to moisten well. Prepare pudding mix as package directs, except use 3 cups milk instead of amount called for on package. Stir in almond extract. Cool slightly and pour custard over cake cubes. Chill thoroughly. At serving time, arrange peaches cup-side up on custard. Whip cream until stiff; mix in powdered sugar and spoon into each peach halves. Garnish peaches and custard with almonds.

Makes 6 or 7 servings.

A Salad Right With Barbecues

It's that time of year when thoughts of food are directly related to barbecues and outdoor eating. An excellent accompaniment for barbecued meats such as spareribs, chicken and chops or barbecued fish is "Fruited Rice Salad," a hearty concoction with a hint of the Far East in its flavorful favor.

It's an unusual combination of cold rice and canned fruit cocktail perked up with water chestnuts, celery, almonds, green pepper and instant minced onion. You may serve it with the dressing of salad oil, vine gar and soy sauce called for in the recipe, or combine ½ cup of your favorite well-seasoned French dressing with a tablespoon of soy sauce. Chill the salad thoroughly for a delightful warm-weather treat. Cold canned fruit cocktail with its five different kinds of fruit makes many salads that much more welcome and refreshing during the spring and summer.

Fruited Rice Salad

1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) fruit cocktail
2 cups cold cooked rice
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 can (5 oz.) water chestnuts, drained and thinly-sliced
1 cup thinly-sliced celery
3 tablespoons green pepper slivers
¼ cup chopped almonds
3 tablespoons vinegar
1-3 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon soy sauce
Salad greens

Drain syrup from fruit cocktail. Combine fruit with rice, onion, water chestnuts, celery, green pepper and almonds. Combine vinegar, oil and soy sauce in jar. Shake well and pour over salad. Mix carefully until well-combined. Chill thorouhgly. At serving time, tuck crisp salad greens around edges of salad bowl.

Makes 6 servings.

A PERFECT COMPANION—for barbecued spareribs is Fruited Rice Salad, a chilled mixture featuring canned fruit cocktail, rice and other favorite ingredients.

A TANGY SAUCE with party-pretty canned fruit cocktail is served as part of exotic, flavorful "Oriental Pilaf With Curried Fruit."

Oriental Pilaf For a Gourmet

Foods with an Oriental background seem to fascinate Occidental tastes. Pilaf may have started its route to culinary fame as a rahter simple concoction of rice, meat or fish and spices, but this Oriental specialty goes gourmet with gusto in "Oriental Pilaf with Curried Fruit."

Preparing it takes very little time because so many convenience foods are used. The sauce almost makes itself since all you do is heat canned fruit cocktail and its syrup with curry powder, brown sugar, butter and lemon juice. (If there's any sauce left over, chill it as a delightful accompaniment for cold meats. Or serve it any time, hot or cold, with broiled ham slices, baked ham, broiled chicken, turkey, roast lamb or pork or pork chops.

Lots of spices enhance the flavor of the packaged pre-cooked rice, topped with shrimp, strips of ham and a garnish of parsley. Instead of shrimp and ham, you may prefer crab meat and turkey or chicken and the pilaf will be equally delectable. If there's a dinner party in the offing at your house, let "Oriental Pilaf with Curried Fruit" be the main course—and it'll probably wind up being the main topic of conversation, too.

Oriental Pilaf with Curried Fruit

2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 1-3 cups boiling water
1 package (5 oz.) pre-cooked rice
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, crushed or minced
⅛ teaspoon ground cumin
1 teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon ground mace
2 tablespoons peanut butter
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 cup cooked shrimp, deveined
2 to 3 cups cooked ham, cut into strips

Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water. Stir in rice. Cover until rice is cooked. Saute instant minced onion in melted butter 2 or 3 minutes. Add garlic, ground cumin, chili powder, mace, peanut butter and seasoned salt. combine with hot rice and toss thoroughly. Spoon onto large platter, arranging whole shrimp and strips of ham on top. Serve with Curried Fruit.

Curried Fruit

1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) fruit cocktail
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter or m argarine
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Combine undrained fruit cocktail with curry powder, brown sugar and butter. Heat to simmering; stir in lemon juice. Serve hot with Oriental Pilaf. Or chill as an accompaniment for cold meats.

Makes 6 servings.

Cashew Nut From India Adds Glamor

The unmistable glamor of the cashew nut stems not only from its delicious flavor but from its far-away origin.

Most of our cashews — they're ideal for nibbling at any time of day and add a distinctive flavor to cookies and other snack foods — come from the state of Kerala in southwest India.

Cultivated in orchards, the nuts are shelled individually by hand. Hundreds of women and young girls, squatting on mats, perform this operation by precision-tapping the hard outer shells with small hammers to break them open while keeping the kernals intact.

Strange as it may seem, this painstaking method is also the best, says a California expert on nuts, Edward Jurczenia.

Jurczenia, who presides over a highly automated nut processing plant in San Francisco, explains wistfully that "no machine has been perfected that can do the job as well."

Cashews, incidentally, are cheaper here than in India where few people can afford them for other than special festive dishes.

For an easy lift in home entertaining that will go down well with your guests, nothing quite compares with a dish of plump and delicious cashews.

CASHEW COOKIES

¾ lb. salted cashews
¼ cup shortening
1 cup white sugar
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
½ tsp. baking soda
1 cup sour cream (½ pt.)
butterscotch glaze

Finely chop 1 cup of cashews, reserving remainder for decorating cookies. Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Sift flour and soda and add to creamed mixture alternating with sour cream. Mix well after each addition. Fold in chopped cashews. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto well greased baking sheets. Place a cashew on top of each cookie. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven 15 to 18 minutes, or until edges are lightly browned. Remove to wire racks and immediately brush tops of cookies with glaze. (Glaze may appear curdled, but heat from cookies will smooth it to a shiny surface.) Makes about 7 dozen cookies.

BUTTERSCOTCH GLAZE

⅓ cup light brown sugar
2 tbls. flour
2 tbls. soft butter or margarine
2 tbls. water

Mix together all ingredients and beat until smooth.

These cashew cookies may be frozen either before or after baking but in either case they should be glazed immediately after baking.

Bite-Size Biscuits Can Steal Show

These hearty but bite-size biscuits may steal the show!

Cheese Omelet with Spanish Sauce
Wheat Germ Drop Biscuits
Fresh Fruit Cup Beverage

WHEAT GERM DROP BISCUITS

2 cups biscuit mix (bought or homemade
1-3 cup wheat germ
½ to ¾ cup milk

Stir together biscuit mix and wheat germ. With a fork stir in enough milk to make mixture a little softer than regular biscuit dough. Drop into greased small muffin pans filling cups almost to top. Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. If muffin-pan cups each hold 2 tablespoons, recipe will make 18 biscuits.

Soler and Lorca Expert Flamenco Dance Stylists

Generally speaking, San Francisco's Flamenco movement was not brought in by a caravan of gypsies and was not sparked by the City's Spanish population. The Sinaloa, which has been in existence since 1928, has had a series of dancers over the last few years. The current duo, Angel Soler, a Peruvian, and Gisela Lorca, a Spanish-Austrian-New York Flamencan, are playing a return engagement with enormous success. Making no bones about the fact that the act is studied, stylized and completely directed toward typical night club audiences, Soler and Lorca present their art with the slickness they acquired as members of the Jose Greco Company . . . La Touraine, the excellent French restaurant in Burlingame, is named for Chef Maurice Brossier's home section of France, where he learned his trade before coming to work in this country for the W. W. Crocker family, then joining with his sister and maitre d' Andre Dumont at their present location.

JACK HOLDER, who holds four Uncle John's Pancake House franchises, patrols El Camino as frequently as a member of the traffic squad (three of his restaurants are located on this busy thoroughfare). Musical talk of the town: Hammond organ tunes as played by Lilli Ann at Earl's House of Fine Foods during her Thursday, Friday and Saturday appearances . . . Mary Knudsen, Denmark House hostess-owner, is looking forward with much anticipation to a vacation which will take her and her attractive daughter on an overseas trip . . . While on the subject of vacations, that's what Guido and Joe of the J and G Restaurant are planning to do. Lew Lehr, whose swank Marina restaurant and cocktail lounge has become one of the Bay Area's favorite steak houses, credits his success to this policy:

"I pay a premium price to be sure I'm buying only the very best," said Lew. "Then I sell at a moderate price."

"You'd be surprised," Lew added, "how important our cutting steaks to order is to our patrons. It makes a big hit with those who prefer a huge steak, the ones who want a small one and everyone in between. Not only do they get exactly the size they prefer, but they pay accordingly."

Lew Lehr

Many other factors contribute to the popularity of Lew Lehr's: the baked potato, prepared according to Lew's own recipe, served piping hot with oodles of butter or sour cream, chopped chives and bacon crumbs; the crisp, tossed-green salad served with French, Roquefort or thousand island dressing, are but a few.

You'll like the warmth you'll find here, too, from the moment you enter and are greeted by Lew and his wife, Edith, who acts as hostess; a graciousness, radiated by the entire staff as they provide flawless service. Lew Lehr's is open seven days a week; serving complete steak dinners from 5 p.m. until midnight. On Sundays they open and close an hour earlier.

QUOTE FROM MOVIE GREAT ORSON WELLES: "We must all love Omar Khayyam's George Mardikian for his love of cooking as much as the cooking itself. My deepest thanks to a truly great artist" . . . The Mary Kaye Trio is beating the entertainment drums to packed houses every night at the Off Broadway, located in the center of San Francisco North Beach activitiy. This new club continues to feature name attractions: Come Tuesday evening, June 18, Earl Grant will top spot the show . . . Now is the time to reserve the private dining rooms at Rocca's restaurant for luncheon or dinner parties of up to 135 persons. They are very much in demand for parties and business meetings . . . Pay special attention to Wednesday, Friday and Saturday eves—Dottie Sumners, vocal impressionist, and Don Obertone and his Banjo Band are on the bandstand. Pizzas are cut up every evening for take out and eat in . . . Sil Oliva's Exposition Fish Grotto has one of the most attractive gift shops on Fisherman's Wharf. Many items imported from Italy . . . IT'S NOT TOO EARLY TO PLAN YOUR JULY FOURTH PARTY. Betty Sedam, general manager of the Caravan Inn in Mountain View, has a suggestion that should please everyone. As far as I know, this is a first on the nitery beat: Fourth of July has been declared Family Day at the Caravan Inn between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., during which time mom, dad, and children can enjoy an old-fashioned poolside picnic, plus have a room in which to change and relax. The total cost for one room and the picnic, including pool privileges, is just $12.00. Yep, that's all. This takes you off the highway and living life as it should be. Most important, the entire family is included in the day's fun and food fest. As an added reminder: A special Sunday dinner is planned for dear ol' dad. My suggestion is to make reservations for these two Caravan Inn dandies right now. The usual Holiday Week End for two (double occupancy) is also in effect. . . . The Reno Mapes Sky Room will open for the summer season of 1963 tonight. The Art Mooney Orchestra and show will appear in the Sky Room on Friday and Saturday evenings. In announcing the schedule of entertainment, Owner Charles Mapes said, "It is a great pleasure for us again to have the type of shows that make operation of the Sky Room feasible."

Betty Sedam

Hyatt House Welcomes You

Everything is back to normal at the Burlingame Hyatt House Hotel — the Coffee Shop, Johnny Kan's, the Scheherazade Room, and the Tourney Room. General manager Ed Sullivan says there are no "fire sale" bargains on the food or beverage menus — through — same pre-fire prices prevail.

You don't have to be a hunter to enjoy the Hunters breakfast at Bodee Cominoli's Pioneer Hotel in Woodside. I'll say this, though, a hunter's appetite is needed to consume all of it. Choice of fruits or juices, Ramos or Silver fizz, breakfast steak and eggs, toast, butter rolls and coffee. This comes under the heading of a Sunday morn Stagecoach stop breakfast, a Pioneer Hotel speciality for numerous years.

Children Receive Special Attention

As busy as Keith Williamson, the self-styled "chicken king" of Burlingame, may be, he takes particular care to see that children have their color pictures during the wait for table orders. Note the pictures that line Keith's Chicken and Steak House restaurant walls next time you dine here. No doubt some of these youngsters may do big things in the world of art.

The Western Woodcraft people held their annual dinner - party (24 strong) at Phil Lehr's downtown Steakery in one of the private dining rooms.

Milt Tonini, Princeton Inn-er, tells a funny one about the cannibal chief who told a captive: "You must stick around for tonight's dinner. You'll be profoundly stirred."

Displays Trophies

Enrico Romano, Pacifica's restaurateur and big game hunter, took me on a wall-to-wall tour of his trophy room in one of his homes. This popular guy has more wild game trophies than Oakland's Snow Museum. Staring at you from the trophy-lined walls are stuffed heads of Bengal tigers to tree squirrels. The main attraction is a big elk head which hangs in the bar of his Romano's Italian restaurant. He fondly calls it "Harvey" Understand Romano turned down $500 for "Harvey," last week. Can't say I blame him.

Ginna, master Grapho Analyst, who has analyzed many of the most interesting personalities in the nation, is currently at the Mountain View Caravan Inn. Amusing, amazing and authentic.

Nick Gust not only offers the best in restaurant fare at his Pacifica restaurant, bar and cocktail lounge, but comfort-plus in his motel located a stone's throw from the shores of the Pacific. If it's food and atmosphere your searching for,

Luncheon business at the New Southern restaurant has zoomed up considerably, lately. Owners Freddy, Reno, and Julio are attributing it to the noonday fashion shows held between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m.

New Restaurant

New restaurant operators in the Gold Rush Dining Room are Ernie and Mrs. Rose Kaplan, better known as Kappy and Mrs. "K." The Kaplans are from Hermosa Beach, where they operated several successful restaurants.

Coffee shop is open from 6 a.m.; dining room service starts at 5 p.m. Reasonable prices. A varied menu includes steak, chicken and seafood. Located next to the Casa Mateo Inn at 350 North Bayshore, "Kappies at the Gold Rush" should soon become a much-sought-out dine-out spot.

If you dined at Joe's of Westlake last Wednesday you couldn't help but notice the large party of doctors (79 strong), who ordered steak dinners all around. My favorite here is rib steak side dished with spaghetti and an order of sliced tomatoes. Restaurant staff member Nancy is also a "rib steaker."

Colma Creek Project Due For Hearing

With the approval of legislation amending the county flood control act, the county board of supervisors is getting right to work to reactive the Colma creek flood control project.

The board, at its meeting yesterday, was to schedule a public hearing on reformation of the project zone.

Efforts over the years to form the zone under the old act were thwarted by the opposition of the cities whose citizens would benefit the least from the work — San Bruno, Daly City, Pacifica and Colma.

Although South San Francisco would have received most of the benefit, under the old act the same tax rate would have been applied throughout the district.

Chief among the amendments approved by the legislature is one which would allow the creation of subzones in which tax rates would believed according to benefit to be received.

County Engineer Don S. Wilson has estimated that a $2 million project would be required, of which $200,000 would be local money and the remainder state and federal.

Early action on reactivating the zone was requested of the board by Richard B. Kluzek, executive director of the Peninsula Manufacturers association. The PMA has always been a strong booster of the project.

The measure amending the act carried an emergency clause so that the usual 90-day waiting period following the adjournment of the legislature is not required.

Restitution Is Ordered

A Daly City mother, convicted of three counts of welfare fraud, has been ordered to make $1246 restitution to the county.

The defendant, Doris Yonning, 30, 315 Templeton avenue, Daly City, was placed on probation for three years and ordered to make the restitution at the rate of $35 a month. Mrs. onning was convicted of failure to report earnings from employment and falsified her eligibility form when she applied for relief under the Aid to Needy Children program.

Celebrating

EJECTION ORDERED

Critic Carried Out of Meeting

By VIRGIL WILSON

Dr. Nancy Jewell Cross, a perennial battler of the County Board of Supervisors, was forcibly ejected from a board meeting Thursday morning in Redwood City.

Dr. Cross, a self-appointed watchdog and critic of county government, was carried out of the board's caucus room by two husky sheriff's deputies, who acted on these instructions from District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson:

"Out she goes."

Members of the board demanded her removal after she barged into an extraordinary closed personnel session and refused to leave.

The board was interviewing Hughes M. Blowers, who has been nominated by Supervisor Alvin S. Hatch for a post on the county planning commission. Newspaper reporters had agreed to leave the room and the front door was closed.

But Doctor Cross came in through the unlocked back door and sat down. Members of the board explained the purpose of the meeting and tried to reason with her, but she refused to go, claiming that the meeting did not qualify under the Brown act to be closed.

On the Double

Chairman James V. Fitzgerald sent for a deputy sheriff and Deputy Owen Bell came on the double. Bell tried to talk her into leaving but had no luck. Then he grabbed her, somewhat gingerly, and tried to pull her up from her seat.

"Take your hands off me," she ordered.

District Attorney Keith Sorenson was asked to come to the board room. Sorenson arrived with his chief deputy, Robert Carey.

The distirct attorney reiterated that the board was within its rights in holding the closed meeting. He suggested, however, that a matron be present when Miss Cross was thrown out. Word was sent out and Kathleen Smithers was dispatched from the sheriff's office on the double.

When Miss Cross still refused to leave, Sorenson gave his order:

"Out she goes."

Thieves Steal Furnishings

Charles Buttigig of 2 Dalerose court, Daly City, reported to police last week that thieves had stolen furnishings valued at about $1500 from his home.

He said he had been moving into the house.

U.S. States Tulip Bulbs Not Harmful

"Taste-testing" tulip bulbs is not harmful says the United States public health service. Records of 13 cases in which tulip bulbs were eaten accidentally showed no ill effects, according to the health service.

Henry L. Verhulst, chief of the service's poison control branch, division of accident prevention, reported the above results of a two-year check on accidental eating of the bulbs in a letter to the Netherlands Flower-Bulb institute, whose director, Gustave Springer, made the correspondence public.

Files of the public health service showed that one child had chewed on 10 bulbs, but without ill effect.

The question was raised by the institute because of recent stories concerning alleged "poison" in tulip bulbs. "The Dutch, who ate tulip bulbs during World War II, were aware these stories are false," Springer said, "but they took no action." Recently, however, the public health service, in a news release, cautioned that "bulbs and seeds for the home flower garden could be a source of poisoning to children." Dr. Paul V. Joliet, chief of the division of accident prevention, asked gardeners to keep in mind that young children might get at these materials and "taste-test."

Because this warning might lead to confusion of tulip bulbs with other plant materials, Springer asked the public health service to check tis files for actual cases, and the result was a clean bill of health for tulips.

Jail Terms For Swami, Girl Friend

Swami Sidney Arthur Long and his pretty brunette sidekick, Patricia York, received sentences of five years to life in San Francisco's Hall of Justice last week.

The pair, who were arrested in Pacifica in January, are charged with a long string of burglaries from Hillsborough to San Francisco which netted up to $200,000 in loot. They were tried only on the burglaries which occurred in San Francisco Monday. Long entered a plea of guilty to two counts and Miss York pled guilty on one count. The oustanding counts were dismissed.

Long, 40, who had a background as a swami as well as burglar and back check artist, and Miss York, 25, were trapped with much of their loot in a house they occupied in a Pacifica tract.

Succulent Is Plant of the Week

HOMES & GARDENS

Our plant this week is a job for the expert botanist for it is listed in the catalogs under several names. Even the amateurs cannot agree for it has two popular names. However, it is a most satisfactory garden plant of many uses and in the C. Ray Wilmore garden, where our picture was taken, it is used on the terrace as a pot plant.

Listed as "Graftopetalu mweinbergii," "Echeveria weinbergii" and "Sedum Weinbergii" in succulent books it is also known by the amateur succulent fan as "Angel Wings" and "Ghost Plant." Regardless of the aliases it may be wearing, this easy-to-grow succulent has many admirers. Everyone seems to agree that it is a member of the crassulaaceae group and that its original home is Mexico. The color of the leaves is so lovely and unusual that it never fails to attract attention. The rather flat, pointed, slightly recurved leaves are a rosy to slightly lavender pink overcast with glistening silver. Some color experts among the flower arrangers refer to it as "pinky-beige."

The petals make a star-shaped rosette on a tough, woody stem that will range from one to eight inches or more. The stems are seldom straight and the star-shaped forms at the end of each stem are never the same identical size. The colorful petals are very crisp and the slightest touch knocks them off. This isn't too bad as the fallen petals root wherever they fall and produce tiny star-shaped plants at their base.

While this colorful succulent may get a little untidy in the garden it is a pot-grower's delight. It grows so readily and the curving stems drape over the sides of the pot, tub or trough so easily without weighting or tying to give the sought after luxuriant look. It also propagates so easily that each grower always has rooted petals to pass along to admiring friends.

Although most succulents are natives of warm areas subject to drought periods they cannot go without water in the cultivated garden. In the wild, many of these plants get pretty unsightly from age and lack of moisture. We don't like this look in the garden so we must give them a little help. As in the wild, their main requirement is perfect drainage. Water left standing around the roots will cause rot of the stems and lower petals so check this carefully before planting any succulents.

While soil type is not a problem so long as it is well-drained, weeds can be. Pulling the weeds causes breakage of the petals and disturbance of the roots. We use a rather thick mulch of very coarse sand over the surface and if the soil is heavy we mix this coarse sand with an equal amount of leaf mold and combine it with the soil before planting.

Snails and slugs are about the most destructive pests these plants are afflicted with. They eat large holes in the succulent leaves and leave a most unsightly residue in the leaf axils. While the sand mulch holds these pests under control to some extent a good snail and slug bait must be used at regular intervals. We have not used the new liquid baits on our succulents, as yet, so unless you have tried them do not go overboard with the first application. Pour it on one or two plants and wait a week or two to get the plant's reaction before treating a whole bed. We haven't been too successful with the pellet type bait but the powdered formula has given good protection when applied at regular intervals.

Harris Firm Moves Office

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES EARN A COLLEGE LEVEL CAREER

Automation Institute offers a program whereby the individual may be ready to start earning after approximately 4 months of training (for young ladies — 4 weeks). Continuing studies may be assumed in other more advanced areas at the Institute, or the student may apply to the college of his or her choice for other related studies. Whatever the choice, the student is confident of an ability to attain financial security.

Nationwide, more companies hire Automation Institute-trained IBM Operators and Data Processing personnel than from any other private school. In the Bay Area, the growth of this career field has provided jobs for 3500 Institute-trained people. Over 700 placed in the Bay Area in just the past 12 months.
